LEGISLATIVE HISTORY

Sex Offender Registration

1947 - California was first in the nation to require registration (retro to 1944). All felony sex crimes or non-sex crimes with a special verdict of "with sexual motivation" had to register in their county.

1990 - Community Protection Act passed unanimously. This gave new tools for law enforcement. It required:

- ◆ Registration
- ◆ Community Notification
- ◆ Civil Commitment of "Sexually Violent Predators"

Washington State was the first in the nation to adopt this Community Notification Act.

- ◆ Law enforcement was granted immunity from civil liability.
- ◆ Notification was deemed "relevant and necessary."
 - Level 1 - law enforcement notification and upon request to the community.
 - Level 2 and 3 - notification should be proactive to the community.
- ◆ Notification must be geographically based on the threat posed by the offender. Risk assessment is done by each law enforcement agency where the offender lives.

September 13, 1994 - Congress passed the Jacob Wetterling Act mandating all states...set up a sex offender registration program by 9-13-97.

May 17, 1996 - Megan's Law amends Jacob Wetterling Act mandating states adopt a sex offender community notification plan no later than 9-13-97.

October 1996 - Pam Lychner Sexual Offender Tracking and Identification Act - Congress directs FBI to establish a national sex offender database within 3 years.

September 1997 - U.S. House of Representatives gives states until 10-4-99 to comply with the Jacob Wetterling Act.

ALL 50 STATES ARE NOW DOING SOME FORM OF COMMUNITY NOTIFICATION.

This is good legislation and it is everyone's responsibility to protect it. Remember, some families have paid the ultimate price for our safety - Megan Kanka, Jacob Wetterling and the most recent example of Shasta Groene's family. What legislation gives us, they can also take away (St. vs. Ward). Vigilante response can cause the courts to restrict or overturn the law.

CONDITIONS OF RELEASE

Offenders may be released prior to having served their sentence and thereby will have "conditions" for their release. It may require that they can not be in or around parks, schoolyards, daycare facilities or anywhere children frequent. If under the supervision of the Department of Corrections (DOC), the Community Corrections Officer evaluates the living environment. Even if they serve all their sentence, they may still have conditions on their release for a maximum of three years.

RISK ASSESSMENTS

Risk assessments are performed by End of Sentence Review Committee (ESRC). This is when they are given their "level" rating. The law enforcement agency receiving the offender does justification of any change in the assessment of risk level done by the ESRC. They may increase or lower the level assigned by ESRC. Rarely is the level ever lowered. If changed, it is usually raised.

- Level 1 = Low risk to the community
- Level 2 = Moderate risk to the community
- Level 3 = High risk to the community (Predatory)

Level 1 Offender - Low risk to the community from known information
Level 2 Offender - Moderate risk to the community from known information
Level 3 Offender - High risk to the community from known information

Bulletin Issue Date: 03/04/2004

If the offender has completed their sentence and supervision period, there are no restrictions placed on their residence location. Police have no authority to determine where they live. Sex offenders, like anyone, need stability in their lives, in their work, social life and housing. However, they are required to register with local law enforcement for various periods of time. This time is determined by the class of felony (A, B or C) they were convicted of. A class A felony requires registration for life. Class B requires 15 years and class C up to 10 years. A DOC review board and the Community Corrections Officer issue conditions that fit the offender's case history.

Sex crimes are crimes of power and control. Lack of stability results in loss of control.

Who is a Sex Offender?

- ◆ Usually adult male (but can be anyone).
- ◆ They live everywhere.
- ◆ They are employed in any type of job.
- ◆ Over 80% of the time, the victim knows the offender.
- ◆ 67% of adults convicted of felony sex crimes in 1995 had no prior criminal history.
